£14m UPGRADE OF TRANSPORT LINKS

HARLOW'S tortuous transport network is in line for a multi-million pound overhaul after the Government announced major new investment into the town's roads and railways.

A whopping £9.9m will be spent on widening a stretch of the busy A414 linking the M11 at junction 7 to the Southern Way roundabout, which itself will be scrapped and replaced with traffic signals.

A further £3.58m has been allocated to improve public transport links on First Avenue, with upgraded facilities for buses, cyclists and pedestrians between Howard Way and the A414.

The money for both congestion-busting projects will come from Whitehall's Community Infrastructure Fund. Work is expected to start on First Avenue imminently and on the A414 duelling scheme later this year.

Meanwhile, the town's rail link will benefit from separate investment in the West Anglia Train Mainline which could see commuters' journey times slashed and more trains running from Harlow Town and Harlow Mill stations.

The transport initiatives have won unanimous cross-party support from

All eyes on airport as President jets in

A RING of steel encircled Stansted Airport this week when American President Barack Obama and other world leaders arrived in the UK for the G20 summit.

After meticulous planning by the White House, the Home Office and BAA, the President and the First Lady touched down at Stansted in Air Force One at 7.51pm on Tuesday.

They were met by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Alistair Darling, and his wife Margaret.

Hundreds of police from several forces were drafted in to provide security in an operation led by Essex Police.

Mr and Mrs Obama boarded helicopter Marine One for the journey to the US ambassador's official residence at Regents Park, London. The rest of the President's 500-strong entourage made their way to London along the M11 in a giant motorcade flanked by police motorcycle outriders.

Soon after they departed, Russian President Dmitry Medvedev arrived. Early yesterday (Wednesday), the airport also welcomed the Ethiopian G20 representatives and, as the Star went to press, German Chancellor Angela Merkel and Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi were expected to arrive there.

Speaking about the US President's arrival, a BAA spokesman said: "In terms of how it went we were very pleased. It was a vote of confidence in the airport, in the way we operate and what we offer."

He added: "People were all genuinely very excited."

After the summit and a meeting with the Queen, Mr and Mrs Obama are expected to leave Britain either today (Thursday) or Friday.

local politicians, with Harlow MP Bill Rammell heralding the improvements as the first steps towards the town's expansion.

"This money will go towards supporting the building of new affordable homes for rent in the area," he said. "We know that transport links are vital to successful communities and these projects will unlock the potential for new housing where it is needed."

His political opponent, prospective Conservative parliamentary candidate Robert Halfon, hailed the investment as a "great day for Harlow".

"This is long-awaited and much-needed," he said. "It is a great day for Harlow and the thousands of motorists who drive into and out of the town every day."

Harlow Council leader Andrew Johnson also welcomed the news but expressed regret that the Government had not committed to the construction of a new junction on the M11 to further ease congestion in the town.

"Overall this is fantastic news for the town," he said. "It is disappointing, though, that the Government didn't take this opportunity to recognise our need for a new junction."

Liberal Democrat group leader Chris Millington added: "Infrastructure investment is essential to deliver the growth and regeneration that the town needs and we will continue to press this case for further Government investment in the future."

But Labour group leader Mark Wilkinson said the investment was proof of the Government's commitment to meeting Harlow's future infrastructure needs.

"I'm delighted that Harlow has been chosen for investment in road improvements and public transport that will benefit everyone who lives and works in the town," he added.

Staff stunned as Nortel axes jobs

By CHRIS MOSS
mossc@hertsessexnews.co.uk

UP to 30 staff have been axed without warning from the Harlow offices of telecom giant Nortel.

Bewildered employees were summoned to a meeting at the Canadian firm's London Road base on Monday morning to be told they were being made redundant with immediate effect and would not be receiving severance pay.

One former employee, who wished to remain unnamed, said: "Most people turned up to the meeting with no idea they were going to be made redundant."

"The way in which the company and its administrators have acted is absolutely disgraceful – we were given no notice, offered no redundancy payment and were told as recently as March 25 our jobs were safe. I feel as though we have been cheated, exploited and deceived."

The European arm of the company went into administration in January and is undergoing a comprehensive restructuring process.

But despite the firm's well-publicised financial difficulties, administrator Ernst & Young had repeatedly assured staff jobs were safe.

UK employment law states firms must usually provide a 90-day consultation period before making redundancies, but an Ernst & Young spokeswoman claimed the administrators had acted within guidelines set out by insolvency legislation.

"The administrators' duty is to act in the best interests of creditors, so in the current circumstances it has not been possible to give notice," she said. "The administration works within the framework of the insolvency legislation and also gives due regard to UK employment laws."

She confirmed staff would receive no severance pay, adding all employees would be eligible for a statutory redundancy payout from the Government.

Harlow MP Bill Rammell said he was extremely concerned about the job losses, adding: "I am making urgent representations on behalf of my constituents to ensure Nortel follows the correct redundancy procedure and that staff receive the redundancy pay they are entitled to."

OAPs in service cuts protest

PENSIONERS staged a demonstration at Harlow Council's Civic Centre yesterday (Wednesday) in protest at cuts to services at the Leah Manning Centre.

Up to 100 elderly people bearing placards packed into the Water Gardens offices to hand in a 2,000 plus signature petition opposing a controversial move to put the centre to off-limits to pensioners unless they are referred by Social Services.

They met with Tory deputy council leader Simon Carter to tell him their concerns regarding the cuts. The protest coincided with a nationwide day of action in which elderly people throughout the country took to the streets to protest at being unfairly treated by the Government.

Harlow Pensioners Action Association chairman Les Coben said: "We were all very vocal but it seems like nothing is going to change."

Rugby player dies minutes after game

TRIBUTES have been paid this week to a much-loved rugby player who collapsed and died after a match.

Tony Robinson (49), of Great Brays, Harlow, suffered a fatal heart attack just minutes after he left the field on Saturday.

He had been playing for Upper Clapton 3rd team away from home against Chingford 3rd team when he complained of feeling unwell in the dressing room.

A team mate tried to revive him but he was pronounced dead after ambulance crews arrived.

His sister, Anne Hardinges, said: "As a family we are grateful he led a full and happy life and he died doing what he loved."

Upper Clapton 3rd team captain Steve Douglass said: "Tony was a quiet, unassuming man. At the rugby club we class him as a legend and he will be sorely missed."

"We are still in shock and I don't think it will hit home until we play our next game and he won't be there."

Mr Robinson, a stock controller for Pitney Bowes, had been playing for Upper Clapton's 3rd team for more than 20 years. He also had a passion for cricket and golf, which he regularly played at Harlow's Canons Brook Golf Club.

As well as a sister, he leaves two brothers – Keith and Ian – a niece Maria and nephew Pablo.

His funeral will take place at Parndon Wood Crematorium at 12.30pm next Thursday.

A 52-year-old 'new' service

NEWSPAPERS the world over have all, at some point, been guilty of carrying a story which later on is revealed to be a couple of facts short of the whole truth.

It's not necessarily through any deliberate fault of the publication but usually because somebody has made an erroneous claim which has been accepted as correct in good faith.

A case in point is the story of what was touted as Harlow's first-ever formal Civic Service, which took place in the town last month and

By
LOUISE SASSOON

was reported in the Star.

However, it now transpires that the actual date of the town's first Civic Service was in fact June 1957 – and what an event it was!

Reported in the then-newspaper of the time, the Harlow Citizen, the service was held at St Mary's Church, in Old Harlow.

The service was attended by dignitaries from throughout the area, including council chairman Cllr D. Anderson, his wife S. Anderson and the rest of their family.

Senior officers, police and members of Harlow Development Corporation were also in attendance.

Hymns were chosen to conform with the sermon, which was based on the ascension story, and lessons from The Bible were also read.

Cannon E.G. Bevan, who took the service, said he hoped the event would become a firm fixture in the council's calendar.

"We hope this service will be an annual event when people in authority can gather with us to seek wisdom and strength from God," he said.

But it appears his appeal fell on deaf ears since it took more than 50 years for the event to be revived.

From the pages of the Harlow Star 25 years ago

PHONES CHAOS

A corroded telephone cable caused chaos in Wych Elm when more than 80 phone lines were cut off. Wych Elm ambulance station was affected but managed to answer 999 calls on its own protected land lines. The Star office was also affected.

BLOKKER SHOP CLOSES SOON

High rents and rates have forced Blokker – the Dutch-owned household store – out of the Harvey Centre. The shop, which has been in the centre for two years, will be closed this month. Four full-time employees will be reemployed at Blokker's other British store in Basildon.

NO FREE PARKING

Car parking fees were introduced in Harlow's only remaining free car park on Monday. It now costs 20p to use the car park in South Road, owned by the Commission for New Towns.

KIDNAP FROM PETS' CORNER

A tiny black and tan billy goat has been kidnapped from Pets' Corner in Harlow Town Park. The six-week-old goat weighs less than a newborn baby and was still being bottle fed.

Silence not golden for anti-social neighbour

A MAN who drove his neighbours to distraction by playing loud music is the latest to fall foul of a crackdown on anti-social behaviour.

Council officers confiscated stereo equipment from the man's home in Parsonage Leys, Harlow, following complaints about noise from residents.

And he was ordered to pay a fine of more than £500 when he appeared at Harlow Court for breaching a noise abatement order.

This week Harlow Council warned it would continue to prosecute persistent offenders and urged residents to report incidents of anti-social behaviour.

Joel Charles, vice-chairman of the council's environment and community committee, said: "We are working hard to make sure that this kind of behaviour isn't allowed to cause people distress or go unresolved. The resident in question displayed a blatant disregard for his neighbours, as well as for action taken by council officers."

"Environmental protection officers exercised their powers swiftly and decisively, returning peace to the neighbourhood and hopefully sending out a clear message that this kind of inconsiderate and disruptive behaviour will not be tolerated"

Sculpture town status to boost tourist trade

COUNCIL chiefs are looking to cash in on Harlow's reputation as the home of a nationally important sculpture collection.

From next month the slogan 'Harlow - Sculpture Town' will appear on brown signage boards and in literature about the town.

It is hoped the move will boost the local economy and encourage people attending the 2012 Olympic Games to visit.

The decision was taken at a full council meeting on Thursday after Conservative councillor Sue Livings proposed a motion to support Harlow Art Trust's application for the status.

"Harlow is renowned for its sculpture collection and they are enjoyed by residents and visitors alike," she said afterwards. "This is the opportunity for people to see something different about Harlow.

"Future tourism is beneficial to the town and will put money into the local economy.

"In 2012 the Olympics will be taking place on the town's doorstep and this will bring many visitors from around the world to the area. How great would it be for Harlow to be recognised as a sculpture town across the world? This would help attract those Olympic visitors to our town."

Harlow Art Trust researcher Dr Michael Paraskos said: "People don't realise that Harlow has the highest concentration of public sculpture in Britain. It is a small town with 80,000 people but there are well over 100 public sculptures in the place."

Trust chairman Julian Rea added: "The decision by Harlow Council to rebrand our town as 'Harlow - Sculpture Town' is fantastic. Here in Harlow we have one of the best public sculpture collections in the world and now we can really let the world know about it.

"This will undoubtedly bring more tourists to Harlow, helping local businesses and raising the profile of Harlow not just in Britain but around the world."

Springing into action for a seasonal celebration

THE arrival of spring was greeted in Harlow with a weekend of music, fun and flowers.

The two-day Spring Into Spring festival organised by the Harlow Town Centre Partnership started at the Harvey Centre with arts and crafts demonstrations, gardening workshops and a traditional Dixieland jazz band.

The action then moved to Market Square on Sunday for an afternoon of live music from teen rockers Members Of Me, The Rhythm & Blues Brothers, pictured above, and Lightnin' Willie and The Poorboys.

"The festival was a great success, especially when you take into account the inclement weather," said town centre development manager Richard Dennery.

"It was amazing to see just how many people took an interest in the gardening, arts and crafts displays while the music on Sunday afternoon was absolutely fantastic."

Pals gear up for a charity bicycle ride

By SOPHIE WARNER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

CYCLING 54 gruelling miles may not sound like your idea of fun but that is what two friends will be doing when they take to the saddle to raise cash for charity.

Dean Cummings (28) and Chris Altelsey (27), both of Savoy Wood, Harlow, will be pedaling their way from London to Brighton with five friends in aid of the British Heart Foundation.

The event, now in its 20th year, has raised more than £40m for the charity. Dean, a plumbing and heating engineer, hopes the team will add a further £1,000 to the coffers.

"I can't wait to do it again," said Dean. "It will definitely be tiring but it's for such a good cause."

The race can take up to six hours but Dean hopes they will complete the course in four, beating his personal best of four-and-a-half hours set last year.

The challenge is so demanding that the BHF insists all riders must be fit and recommends they train two or three times a week for several weeks ahead of the ride which this year takes place on June 21.

Dean, who has completed the challenge before, has been preparing for the event by spending his Sundays on long bike rides and his free time in the gym.

"We are trying to do as much as we possibly can," he said.

Anyone wanting to sponsor the team can email Dean at dean.cummings@ntworld.com

Awards offer IT equipment

COMMUNITY and charitable groups in Harlow are being invited to apply for awards including laptop computers and free broadband internet connection to help keep their organisation's finger on the pulse.

Telecommunication giant BT is running a Community Connections scheme which encourages groups to submit applications for a BTCC Cluster Award which could result in them receiving additional packages of IT equipment.

The company hopes the equipment will broaden opportunities to email, network, access training opportunities and secure jobs.

About a third of all people in the country are considered to be digitally excluded.

Beth Courtier, head of BT's charity programme, said: "Community Connections remains a key element of our strategy to help people take full advantage of the huge benefits offered by the internet.

"In today's digital world, exclusion from the internet has become a key facet of social exclusion. We are very proud to be at the forefront of empowering local communities by providing these highly successful awards across the whole of the UK."

To apply, visit the website at www.btcommunityconnections.com or write to PO Box 6919, London W1A 8UX to request an application form.

Shop staff dressed in 'period' costume

CHARITY shop staff turned back the clock when they donned retro outfits as part of a promotional drive to try to entice more people through the door.

Workers at the YMCA outlet in Little Walk, Harlow, dressed in outfits from the 1950s-1980s and took to the streets to spread the word about the store.

The day saw an estimated 20 per cent increase in trade. Manager Alison Cliff said: "It was a successful day. We are hoping to get more people bringing in their old vintage and retro clothes to be sold."

BHF collection

KIND-hearted shoppers donated nearly £100 when a charity collection was held outside a Harlow supermarket.

A total of £92.06 was raised for the British Heart Foundation in the fundraising drive outside Tesco in Edinburgh Way in February.

The charity supports heart research, helps buy cardiac equipment for hospitals and provides specially trained nurses who give help and support to patients and their families.

Smashed plates spark health and safety row

A RESTAURANT has been accused of taking health and safety to the extreme after management allegedly refused to allow staff to clear up shards of shattered crockery in case somebody tripped over the vacuum cleaner lead.

And when customer Paddy Cannon questioned the decision, he and his guests were ordered to leave the Harlow Mill Beefeater.

Mr Cannon (35), of Milestone Road, Harlow, said: "The world's gone mad. I just couldn't believe what I was hearing."

Mr Cannon was with his sister Jackie (47) and his 16-month-old daughter Olivia at about 3pm last Friday when a waitress dropped several plates and bowls near their table.

The broken crockery was cleared up but Mr Cannon said several sharp shards remained on the floor. His sister then asked for the carpet to be vacuumed but Mr Cannon claims they were told this would not be possible for safety reasons as the company could be sued if a customer was to trip over the lead.

When he questioned the decision and voiced his concern for the safety of his daughter he was asked if they would like to move tables.

He refused and was given a refund for his drinks before being told to leave the premises.

"It was just ridiculous," he said. "There was a bit of a confrontation and I said 'Welcome to Britain' as if to make the point that this is what the country has come to."

"We were told to move into the other restaurant and I said 'no' because we were in the family area and my sister was talking to somebody."

"Then they said they would reimburse our drinks and told us to leave. I asked why and they couldn't give me an answer."

However, a spokeswoman for Whitbread plc said that while the company took all matters of health and safety seriously, staff did not consider it necessary to vacuum the carpet.

Hospitals cut waiting times

RESIDENTS in Harlow are facing shorter waits for hospital treatment than ever before, according to new figures.

The Department of Health has found that a majority of people in west Essex who are referred to hospital by their GP are seen within 18 weeks or sooner.

The announcement follows a targeted campaign by health chiefs to reduce waiting times in the area for hospital appointments, tests, scans and other procedures.

NHS West Essex chief executive Aidan Thomas said: "This is great for local people. Not so long ago, people could wait months for care and treatment."

"Waiting can be an anxious time for them. They may not be able to live their day-to-day life or have to rely on friends and family."

"We have been working with our local hospitals to make sure this changes. These figures show how successful we have been."

Police step up patrols in park

POLICE have stepped up patrols in Harlow Town Park in a bid to curb drinking and littering.

The move is in response to an increasing number of complaints about drinkers - some clearly underage - tossing empty cans and beer bottles throughout the area.

Golden ticket wins Paul a new motor

SHOPPER Paul Ashman couldn't believe his luck when he won a new car in a Harvey Centre competition.

The 49-year-old, from Hunsdon, drove off in a sporty Chevrolet Matiz after picking the car's keys from a lucky dip on Saturday.

He was one of five finalists who got a shot at winning the car after being issued with golden tickets when they drove in to the shopping centre's car park.

Centre manager Bryan Young said: "It is great to be able to offer our customers the chance to experience great shopping and opportunities to win prizes all year round, but it is a special treat to be able to give one lucky family a brand new car."

"I would like to thank our partners - Motorsales Harlow and Ten-17 - for working with us on this promotion once again this year."

HWRA deal still a cause for concern

SIR, The last-minute change of mind by Harlow's Conservative-led council over the future of the advice centre offers a glimmer of hope for local residents, but serious concerns still remain about the council's plans.

There will be more money for advice services than the Conservatives originally proposed. Even so, the service will be operating on less than one-third of its previous grant. This will be a serious cut in the level of help available just as demand is increasing as a result of the credit crunch.

There is also no guarantee the council will award the contract for specialist advice services to Harlow Welfare Rights or any other external supplier. If the contract is not awarded, the Conservatives say the council will run a limited advice service itself from within Contact Harlow. How will that be able to offer independent advice in cases where people's problems are with council departments such as housing or benefits?

There is no certainty of the amount of money to be granted to the Citizen's Advice Bureau to enable it to continue to offer general advice. A council officer, in consultation with two Conservative councillors, will negotiate and agree a one-year-only deal with the CAB. And the CAB may no longer be able to rely on the benefits such as out-of-hours reception desk and cleaning costs that it has enjoyed from working in the same building as Harlow Welfare Rights.

The only reason the Conservatives have been forced to come forward at the eleventh hour to agree any of these modest improvements, was the overturning of their original plans by the High Court, and an unprecedented backlash from service users, residents and opposition councillors.

Is it unreasonable to expect MPs to buy their own plugs?

SIR, I welcome Mr Rammell's belated admission that claiming £100,000 since 2001 to finance his Westminster pad was wrong (Star, March 26).

However, most of his constituents will find it hard to understand why an MP with a Parliamentary seat a mere 25 miles from the Palace of Westminster should need a London apartment in the first place.

As I understand it, the Labour MP for Reading has not felt the need to increase the taxpayers' burden in this way.

Mr Rammell also admitted that he had dipped into the Additional Costs Allowances to pay for items such as council tax. Lucky him.

I noticed at the weekend that the embattled Home Secretary, in addition to adult movies, had claimed 88p for a plug. Well, this part-time public employee on a very modest salary bought his own £1.69 plug from Dyson's in the town centre at the weekend.

I would like to know why the likes of Mr Rammell, earning in excess of £100,000, should not pay for their own plugs. Or am I being unreasonable?

Guy Mitchinson
Joyners Field, Harlow

SIR, So not content with an annual salary of over £170,000, first class travel, free parking at Westminster and a ministerial car, Bill Rammell has spent more than £100,000 of our money on

MP expenses 'need reform' says Rammell

FLASHBACK: Last week's report in the Star

a second home close to Westminster to use following "late night meetings and debates".

So when are Parliament's late nights? Only Mondays in fact when Parliament starts at 2.30pm and finishes at 10.30pm. The rest of the week Parliament starts at 11.30am and finishes at 7.30pm, except for Fridays when it finishes at 3pm.

Mr Rammell says he recently stopped claiming the allowance. It would be more than illuminating to know just how recently and why he never made a public statement about it. Agreed, no rules have been broken but then these vague rules were written by MPs for MPs.

His claim that he is supporting calls for an overhaul of the allowance system again has more than a hollow ring about it. Just eight short weeks ago, as part of the payroll vote, he was backing a three-line whip by Gordon Brown to exempt MPs expenses being disclosed by the Freedom of Information Act.

David Pugh
Cope Hill, Harlow

SIR, I contacted Bill Rammell in January when MPs were about to vote to exempt themselves from the Freedom of Information Act in order to conceal details of their expenses.

I asked for his views and how he intended to vote but received no reply. Well, now I know why.

Does he have any idea how spending that amount of our money appears to his constituents? Parliament does not any longer have sittings three or four times a week which require him to stagger out at 3am.

Great efforts have been made to put the business of Parliament on a more business-like footing. The hypocrisy of suddenly deciding that this expenditure was no longer sensible but only after the press have started investigating MPs' expenses is depressing to say the least.

For me the saddest thing is that this behaviour is just the latest reason why Harlow is very unlikely to have a Labour MP after the next election. - Labour supporters deserve better than this, Mr Rammell.

L. Pennell
Kingsland, Harlow

Left to their own devices, the Conservatives would be prepared to see the Advice Centre close and vulnerable residents left without help. That is the message that local people will take away from this whole sorry story

Councillor Linda Palling
Doulton Close, Harlow

those affected by the proposals.

Officers and councillors then came up with solutions like an hour's free parking for shoppers, permit parking for shop workers and concessions for the bowls club.

But the response at the meeting was "do nothing," but that's what got us into this mess. Why charge? We could apply restrictions without a charge and be virtually unique among councils, but we would have to shut yet more services to pay for the maintenance of the car parks, the wardens, the signs and lines.

Nothing comes free any more. Harlow is wearing out fast and we have to get real about how to deal with that and how to pay for it.

Councillor Tony Hall
Kingsdon Lane, Harlow

Parking: Nothing is free anymore

SIR I thank the Star for reporting accurately the council committee meeting that considered solutions to some of Harlow's parking problems, but it could not convey the enormity of these problems. Who could have foreseen the growth of car ownership over the past 50 years?

Successive councils have dabbled with solutions but none has been successful and parking problems still occupy the biggest part of councillors' postbags.

If we responded to every request for yellow lines almost every road would now have them, needing an army of wardens. Imagine, residents with garages would actually have to park their cars in them, most families would have to restrict themselves to just one car and people would have to walk, cycle or use buses. Wheelchair users, mothers with pushchairs, the elderly and the blind would be able to get around unhindered.

We can't do that but we have to do something about the worst areas, our shopping centre car parks where, because parking is free, residents and shop staff take up much of the available parking leaving shoppers to cruise around looking for a legal space or park illegally causing obstruction to traffic and damage to footpaths.

Some people at the meeting or in letters to the Star complain that the council proposes to actually enforce the yellow lines! What can I say? Most complaints we get are that we don't enforce them enough.

Council officers worked for months to come up with proposals to resolve the problems. Consultation rightly drew a big response from

Shocking waste of library funds

SIR, I am a member of a very active reading group and we regularly obtain our books through Harlow's town centre library.

Our contact is prompt and reliable, organising and informing me by email when the 10 copies are available. For this reason I am astonished, angry, surprised and confused that, as a council tax payer, I receive at least five computer-generated letters each month informing me individual books are ready for collection and need to be picked up within 10 days.

When I asked about this it was suggested that I should just ignore the letters. This is a ridiculous situation. I received two letters on the same day this weekend, each costing 24p to post. I don't need these books until the middle of April.

How many other groups in Harlow and Essex are receiving these letters and putting them straight into the bin? This is a complete waste of money and, with budgets being stretched to a maximum, this arrangement should stop immediately.

Hundreds of pounds are being wasted. One letter, telephone call or email is quite sufficient to inform individual groups of the up-to-date situation.

I cannot believe that with so many areas of social dependency under threat this money could not be better spent.

Ann Flint
School Lane, Harlow

Be grateful for warm mercies

SIR, Does Joyce Maskell live in the real world or in 1957? ('Our heating bill will double', March 26). Has she any idea how much some people have to pay for council tax, gas and electricity?

Unless she has made a mistake, £14.75 is minimal compared to what I pay. I am also a single female pensioner and wish my heating bill was so small. It is not a cause for complaint; she should be grateful.

V. Tweed
Ayletsfield, Harlow

Mean thief is on the prowl

SIR, There is a thief prowling the Shawbridge area of Harlow.

The thief decided to enter on to our property and steal our hanging winter flowering basket. This was no mean task as the basket was fitted high up and very heavy.

I hope the person who may have been given our basket will ask where it came from. We feel that all the people who take care and pride in their gardens should be aware of the low-life who thinks its good to steal other people's property.

Police dismiss suggestion of a cover-up in letter sent to Lubbock dad

ESSEX Police said this week there was no truth in suggestions that officers were among the guests at Michael Barrymore's home on the night Harlow man Stuart Lubbock died.

An anonymous letter sent to Stuart's father, Terry, implied that serving officers were at the Roydon mansion, fuelling Mr Lubbock's suspicion that there had been some sort of a cover-up.

"It might be a hoax but I feel as though it is significant," Mr Lubbock, pictured above, told the Star this week. "I think they have something to hide."

Stuart died in 2001 after he was discovered floating in Mr Barrymore's swimming pool after a house party. He was found to have suffered serious sexual injuries and had drugs in his system.

Last month Essex Police apologised to Mr Lubbock after the Independent Police Complaints Commission ruled errors were made in the initial investigation into Stuart's death. The scrawled letter, the original copy of which has now been handed to the IPCC, states: "I'm sorry about the murder of your son. Perhaps you should inquire how many police were at the party and if a police sergeant was transferred out of the area the next day. Good luck."

Mr Lubbock said he was surprised the officer who was sent to his Great Brays home last week to collect the handwritten message did not take the original copy which he said could have been tested for fingerprints.

However, a spokeswoman for Essex Police said: "There is no truth in the suggestions made in the letter." She added that Mr Lubbock had asked to keep the original copy of the letter when an officer was sent to collect it.

Shock at theft of funeral flowers

By LOUISE SASSOON, News Editor
sassooni@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A GRIEVING family were shocked to discover floral tributes had been stolen just a few hours after their grandmother's funeral.

The wreaths and floral arrangements had been placed outside the chapel at Parndon Wood Crematorium in Harlow following the service for 79-year-old Mary Cockman.

But soon after mourners left, seven arrangements went missing.

Granddaughter Lisa Rump (30), of Church End, Harlow, said: "It's sickening to think the flowers were stolen. I just can't believe it."

"There needs to be CCTV up there because we have spoken to other people who say they have had things taken from graves."

Mrs Rump, who had taken photographs of the flowers before going home, said the family noticed some had been removed shortly after the service last Wednesday afternoon.

When her sister Carol Townsend (33) returned to the crematorium three hours later with her two daughters, who did not attend the funeral, she noticed their flowers were nowhere to be seen.

She took photographs of the displays and when she compared them with those taken earlier by her sister they realised several arrangements were missing.

"I went to speak to somebody about it at the crematorium but there was nobody there, not even in the office," said Mrs Rump.

"I eventually spoke to somebody about it to make sure the flowers had not been picked up or moved and we were told they hadn't been. We even checked to see if they had blown away but we found nothing. We are absolutely devastated."

The family has now reported the theft to police.

A spokesman for Harlow Council said the area was regularly patrolled by community rangers but added: "Unfortunately it is not possible to completely stop the possibility of such deplorable acts in cemeteries and churchyards."

He also said some cases of suspected thefts of flowers and damage to graves was caused by deer.

Fifteen McJobs on the menu at fast food chain

FAST food chain McDonalds is offering some welcome relief to jobseekers by creating 15 new positions in Harlow.

The company has teamed up with Job Centre to create posts across the country as part of a nationwide scheme to get the long-term unemployed back into work.

Tony Fagg, a franchisee for Harlow McDonalds, said: "Our approach to recruitment has long been about qualities not qualifications. Our training provides a balance between on-the-job skills development as well as nationally recognised GCSE and A-level equivalent qualifications."

"We employ people, not CVs, and we help them to be the best they want to be by providing a broad range of opportunities."

Job Centre candidates will be given the opportunity to take part in an on-site work trial as part of the recruitment process which will allow them the chance to demonstrate their personal qualities which cannot always be conveyed on a written CV.

Charity that's banking on shoppers' generosity

GENEROUS shoppers dug deep and donated 15 boxes of food to the Harlow Foodbank on Saturday.

The collection was the second to take place at Asda in The Water Gardens in preparation for the charity's opening later this month. The food will be distributed to disadvantaged people in the town.

Gary Knott, director of community services for Harlow Foodbank, said: "Shoppers responded to the appeal in such a positive way as they were asked to donate one item from a shopping list given out to them as they entered the store.

"All the food collected is then sorted and will be distributed to individuals and families in crisis via registered care professionals."

He added: "Our thanks go to Rachel Forth and her staff team at Asda for allowing the food collection day to happen, to shoppers for their sheer generosity and to all the volunteers who gave their time to collect and sort the food."

Man (22) denies sex assaults on elderly

A MAN forced a 73-year-old woman to perform a sex act on him and threatened to kill her after he dragged her into bushes, a court heard.

Michael Kayode (22), of Moorfield, Harlow, used a plastic bag to cover his genitals and covered the woman's eyes with clothing during the attack on July 20 last year, Chelmsford Crown Court was told.

Kayode denies charges of rape, sexual assault, robbery and attempted robbery between July 20 and August 5, 2008.

The jury was told each charge related to separate female victims.

Prosecutor Deborah Champion said on Wednesday: "These were vulnerable ladies, out in the early morning and all in close proximity."

Describing the first attack, she said the pensioner was cleaning rubbish in the Staple Tye area of town at about 6am when she was grabbed from behind and dragged away.

About two hours later a woman in her late 50s was approached from behind, her face was covered with a plastic bag and she was forced to the ground and sexually assaulted. Her handbag was also stolen.

Giving details of the third attack, Miss Champion said the 63-year-old victim had been to the shops and was walking home along a footpath with the aid of a stick when she was assaulted.

"She was grabbed from behind, a hand was put over her mouth, she was forced to the ground in a wooded area and told if she didn't stop screaming she would be killed.

"He tried to get a rucksack but ran off eventually empty-handed."

The trial continues.

Tory pledge to look at need for bypass

A CAMPAIGN to secure a bypass for Harlow won the backing of Shadow Transport Secretary Theresa Villiers when she visited town last week.

The MP for Chipping Barnet supported calls for an extra junction off the M11 and pledged to look at the issue seriously if the Conservatives come to power.

"I was pleased to come to Harlow and discuss this with Robert Halfon [prospective Parliamentary candidate for Harlow] and others. Robert has lobbied me extensively and regularly and I understand the need for an extra bypass," she said.

She also spoke about plans for a second runway at Stansted and took a swipe at Harlow MP Bill Rammell's stance on the proposal.

"I am glad to confirm that, if elected, a Conservative Government will not allow a second runway at Stansted to be built.

"It is odd that a Government minister and local Labour MP says he opposes a second runway, yet his own Government is forcing it through. His position is irreconcilable as a Government Minister."

Mr Halfon said: "I am delighted that Conservative policy is to oppose a second runway as it would destroy our countryside and add to noise and pollution.

"It is also good news that the Shadow Transport Secretary is now well aware of the bypass issue as this is desperately needed. Local residents deserve nothing less."

Trust workers are among the UK's happiest

STAFF at West Essex PCT are among the happiest in the country, according to a new survey.

The Healthcare Commission found workers feel valued by their colleagues and say they have an interesting job.

Good communication between senior management and staff was also acknowledged while the percentage of staff receiving well structured appraisals in the last year also exceeded the national average.

The results of the annual survey put the organisation among the top 20 per cent of PCTs nationwide for its standard of working conditions.

However, the survey also showed the PCT needs to make improvements in some areas after it was found to be below the national average regarding staff working extra hours and health and safety training.

Chief executive Aidan Thomas said: "These results are great news. If staff are positive about their work, they give better care to patients." "Where we didn't score so well, we will work hard to improve our ratings."

Small boost for recycling levels

COUNCIL chiefs are celebrating after it emerged Harlow's recycling levels are continuing to rise closer to the county target.

The amount of household waste recycled and composted in Harlow has risen to 25.5 per cent from 22.45 per cent last year and the amount of garden waste composted has increased from 359 tonnes in 2007/08 to 465 tonnes in 2008-09.

However, Harlow is still well below other councils in Essex which have recycling rates of more than 40 per cent.

Environment and community committee chairman Eddie Johnson said: "The improvements are largely down to our efforts to keep the public informed."

Town prepares to honour volunteer military group

A BAND of volunteer soldiers is to be granted the freedom of entry into Harlow in the first ceremony of its kind to take place in the town's history.

The Essex Yeomanry will be honoured for its 220-year association with the area in a ceremony and parade which will form part of official celebrations based around St George's day on April 25.

The award allows the Yeomanry to march through Harlow and its district on appropriate occasions with swords drawn, bayonets fixed, its band playing and regimental standard flying.

Being awarded the freedom of entry does not carry with it any rights or responsibilities, but it is the top award the council can give a person or organisation and, according to Harlow Council, it will be the first time it has been awarded in the town and only the third time it has been awarded in Essex since the Second World War.

Council chairman Tony Hall said: "It is fitting that Harlow should show its respect for the outstanding qualities of the soldiers, many of whom have local connections.

"April 25 will be a proud day for the Yeomanry troops and for the town. It will also give a welcome boost to our troops' morale."

The Yeomanry's association with the area goes back to 1798 when Colonel Montague Burgoyne of Mark Hall raised one of the Yeomanry's troops in Harlow.

It is now continued through members of the Territorial Army who serve as members of the 70th Essex Yeomanry Signal Squadron.

In recent years, soldiers from the squadron have contributed to operations in Afghanistan, Bosnia, Kosovo and Iraq.

Proposing the award at Thursday's full council meeting, council leader Andrew Johnson said: "Honouring these men and women in this way will be the biggest and most prestigious public event Harlow has held in recent years; indeed, one of the biggest in Harlow's history."

Ex-EastEnders Tamzin backs hospice walk

TELEVISION celebrity Tamzin Outhwaite has this week raised the profile of the St Clare Hospice Midnight Walk by giving her support to the event.

The former EastEnders actress, pictured right, told the Star: "I want to encourage as many people as possible to take part in this wonderful evening of fun and fundraising."

A member of Tamzin's family was cared for by staff at the hospice's in-patient unit.

"I have personally experienced the care and support that St Clare Hospice provides and the difference it makes to real lives. However, the hospice needs the generous support of the local community to be able to continue to offer its services to so many people each year."

Hospice communications manager Giles Wright said: "We have eight bedrooms at St Clare, each looking out on to the fantastic landscaped grounds with wildlife running around and plenty of bird feeders so there's always something for the patients to see."

"Each room is designed to be more like a hotel suite than a hospital room. Every bedroom has its own en-suite bathroom, TV, stereo, telephone and wireless internet access."

"The rooms are warm and bright and there is carpet running throughout the unit and the bedrooms. It doesn't feel clinical but obviously these aren't hotel guests; they are people living with life-limiting illnesses such as cancer."

"Some patients are here for symptom management which means that their pain or other symptoms may have been uncontrollable at home and they needed to have the specialist team observe them and manage their medication in a more effective way."

"It's important that the community understands that not everyone who is admitted to the hospice is coming to die here. The average stay for any of our patients is around 14 days and a large proportion come here to have our specialist help before going home."

"Some patients will choose to spend their last days with us because they know that they will be supported by the very best level of specialist care, which helps them to maintain their dependence and dignity."

Last year's Midnight Walk, which follows a 10km route around Harlow, raised a magnificent £106,000 which is enough to fund the unit for more than four weeks, caring for up to eight patients at any one time.

"The in-patient unit certainly is not a dark or depressing place; it's full of life and often laughter," said Giles. "Sad things do happen within its walls but it doesn't feel like a sad place."

"Despite it obviously being incredibly busy with new patients arriving and others going home, it has a sense of calm and peace."

There is a huge need for such care as more and more people are diagnosed with life-limiting illnesses each year. That is why the Star, which is once again supporting the Midnight Walk, is calling on its army of readers to sign up for this year's event taking place on Saturday, June 20.

Organisers are hoping more than 2,000 people will take part in this year's event and have set a fundraising target of £120,000.

● To register today, log on to the website at www.stclare-hospice.co.uk/midnight-walk. If you do not have access to the internet, you can request a registration pack by calling the 24-hour hotline on (01279) 773759.

I'll be indebted to them for rest of my life

THE husband of a woman who died in St Clare Hospice is spearheading this year's Spring Appeal.

Sarah Wilkinson was just 29 when she was told the cancer for which she was receiving treatment was terminal and she had just weeks to live.

"We were devastated," said her husband Sean. "We decided to end her treatment and make her as comfortable as possible for the time she had left."

Sarah moved into the hospice two weeks later. "Even though St Clare was close to our home in Harlow I'd never taken much notice of it," said Sean. "I thought it was just for old people to come and die but it wasn't the gloomy place I expected. I was amazed how tranquil and comfortable it was. Sarah's room opened onto beautiful gardens with squirrels and rabbits hopping about."

"From the minute we walked in we were made welcome. The staff bent over backwards to provide everything we needed, but they also gave Sarah the space and privacy she wanted."

"After the nightmare of travelling down to London with the kids to visit her in hospital, it was such a relief to have her close by. For her last few days, the hospice gave me a bed in Sarah's room and they also provided an internet link so I could keep in touch with the family."

Sarah was holding Sean's hand when she passed away on January 30 last year.

This week the hospice launched its Spring Appeal, asking people to visit its special appeal page online at www.stclare-hospice.co.uk/springappeal and donate money to help more people like Sarah and Sean.

"Everything centres on the patient and their family," said Sean.

"Then, when the patient dies, the support carries on for the family."

"The hospice helped us with the funeral and offered counselling to the children. There's also counselling available for me any time I want it."

"The people at St Clare have been incredible. I'll be indebted to them for the rest of my life."

Cementing a taste for science

THE DOWNS: Pupils got their hands dirty when they took part in a brickwork taster day at Harlow College. The exercise, linked to an ongoing science project, gave pupils an insight into the life of a bricklayer and gave them the chance create their very own brick walls with a helping hand from college students.

Teacher Vickie Delbridge said: "This has been great fun for the children and excellent for community links between the school and college."

Schools together to cook up a storm

CHILDREN put their culinary skills to the test in a workshop teaching them how to rustle up a healthy treat.

Members of cookery clubs at BURNT MILL, PEAR TREE MEAD, HENRY MOORE, SPINNEY JUNIOR, HARLOWBURY, MILWARDS and KINGS MOOR learnt how to prepare tasty dishes in the Let's Get Cooking event held at The Stow.

All participating schools will also receive cooking equipment, advice and support from Let's Get Cooking specialists for joining the workshop, sponsored by The Big Lottery Fund. Let's Get Cooking regional club director Annabelle O'Toole said: "It's brilliant Harlow schools are so keen to get cooking and we are delighted so many local schools signed up so quickly."

"Their start up day, which is the final of three events, gets children cooking for the first time."

"After that they will be ready to begin their own club sessions involving lots of practical cooking and great fun events for the whole school, parents and the wider community."

History with a measure of invention

STEWARDS: Three famous engineers of yesteryear returned to Harlow to teach children of today how they influenced the modern day.

The achievements of Thomas Telford, George Stephenson and Michael Faraday were depicted by performers from specialist educational theatre company Spectrum Drama, which visited the school to teach the importance of their work in a special play.

Students also had the chance to decide which of the engineers' achievements they thought were best.

Victoria Tidmas said: "We think the actors gave us a deep insight into how three individuals can change the future world for an easy and more comfortable life, for example, travel, home life and business."

Tom Lewis added: "If Thomas Telford, Michael Faraday or George Stephenson did not have the drive and determination to succeed in their fields, then our lifestyle would be very different."

First Steps switches on to bouncing

FIRST STEPS PLAYGROUP: Children jumped at the chance to raise hundreds of pounds for new play equipment.

A total of 53 youngsters bounced for five minutes non-stop on an inflatable castle in the event which took place in the grounds of Potter Street Primary School.

More than £300 was raised last Tuesday, to be put towards chalk boards, sand pits and outdoor clothing for the youngsters to play in when the weather is bad.

Playgroup leader Chris Scotchbrook said: "I would like to thank everybody who sponsored the children to take part in the bounce."

Rehab unit to ease bed wait

By LOUISE SASSOON
News Editor
sassoonl@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A REHABILITATION unit for patients at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital has opened in a newly built residential home.

The hospital has signed a three-year deal with Runwood Homes to take over the top floor of Alexandra House nursing home, which has been built on the site of the former Hamstel House.

The unit will provide 38 beds for convalescing patients and will help free up space in the hospital to meet demand.

PAH NHS Trust executive director of nursing Yvonne Blucher said: "We are constantly reviewing the use of our beds across the whole of the hospital site.

"Runwood Homes offered us a tremendous opportunity to utilise a modern, state-of-the-art facility for patients requiring short term care or rehabilitation. Patients will be cared for by both hospital and Runwood staff in a comfortable, more homely and non-clinical setting.

"Using this unit will allow us far more scope to use other wards and beds in the main hospital to meet growing demand for our services whilst at the same time reducing waiting times in line with national targets."

Runwood Homes managing director Logan Logeswaran said: "This is an exciting and innovative new venture within the care industry and the 'step down' facility offers the much-needed rehabilitative nursing outside of the hospital setting.

"This has only been achieved by working in partnership with Princess Alexandra Hospital. It follows our philosophy of caring for the community in the community, and provides patients and families with a more relaxed approach."

This latest initiative comes after PAH launched a 'virtual ward' programme allowing some patients to be treated in the comfort of their own homes.

Princess Alexandra Rated Amongst The Best Maternity Services In The East of England

The Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS
NHS Trust

Why Our Babies Are In the Safest of Hands

The maternity service at The Princess Alexandra Hospital is one of the fastest growing in the South East. The service has seen a 15 per cent increase in the number of babies born over the past three years and, following a rating as being a 'better performer' in the Healthcare Commission's report on the quality of maternity services in England, has been enjoying a bumper 12 months, delivering more babies than ever before – 3,700 in the past year alone.

Associate Director for Women and Children's Services, Wendy Matthews, said: "Our midwifery team has a great reputation and we are proud of the fact that midwives want to come and work with us. We are also pleased that many midwives join our team and stay with us a long time. We believe that's because of the development opportunities and support available.

"We have focused on providing as much choice as possible for women and their partners in how they deliver their babies and also offering services for women who have difficulty in conceiving. We have on site links with our new dedicated Women's Health Unit and the support of our neonatal intensive care unit. The department has seen substantial improvements after an investment of over £1 million to upgrade the wards and improve the overall environment.

"We also have a busy community midwifery team and are seeing more mums choosing to have their babies at home."

To offer still greater choice for women, a new midwife-led birthing centre was opened in 2007 and celebrates its second birthday next month.

Birthing Unit Manager, Anna Peacock, said: "The centre has been a resounding success with women. We are now well on the way to our 800 deliveries with over 50 percent being water births in our special birthing pool.

"Our overarching aim is to provide a top quality service that values women and offers them a greater range of choice. The centre has two birthing rooms - one with a birthing pool - facilities for partners and relatives to accompany labouring mothers, and a 24 hour service that is open 52 weeks of the year."

When he opened it, Alan Johnson, the Secretary of State for Health, said: "The new birthing centre at Princess Alexandra Hospital is a prime example of a high quality facility with excellent staff providing mothers and their families with the support and choice they need."

The Experience Of Our Midwives

Community midwife Justine Hughes has worked at PAH for over 15 years and is a member of the innovative Teenage Pregnancy Team which supports women under 20 who live in Harlow or who have a Harlow GP.

Justine said: "We are a busy team, I see over 30 women a month. I will be in constant contact with the women via text and phone calls to offer support throughout the duration of their pregnancy. It also means working closely on a regular basis with partner organisations, schools and teaching professionals so that we offer a network of support to the individual."

Charlotte Stead was on the hospital's nurse cadet scheme. She trained as a nurse but returned to PAH to take up midwifery.

Charlotte said: "I love the fact that you can face a different situation every day. Since qualifying I have also received lots of support via the mentorship programme which sets out specific goals to achieve and at the end can mean promotion. The senior midwives are tremendous in that they lead by their own example, give you advice when needed and don't let you feel you are being micro managed."

Elaine Prior recently qualified as a midwife at PAH and works in the Priory Team (covering Waltham Abbey and Harlow) and on the Birthing Unit. Elaine said: "I did my midwifery training at PAH and enjoyed it so much I wanted to stay on. I continue to have a mentor and supervisor that I can go to at any time 'safety net'. I like that we give women a number of birthing options so they can make an informed choice. We all try to put women at their ease and make the whole experience as un-clinical and stress free as possible."

Rona Drumm has returned to midwifery after taking a six year break to have her own family. She works across the labour, antenatal and post natal wards plus theatres and the neonatal intensive care unit. Rona said: "PAH is a good place to work because you are a member of a committed and flexible team with access to a great deal of resources and support such as the bereavement service, senior midwives etc. The midwives work to empower the women."

What People Say About Us

"Kathy, the birthing unit co-ordinator, was encouraging and supportive – she was really amazing and made our birth experience a wonderful time."

"The staff were brilliant and so supportive."

"The unit is very relaxing and the staff were brilliant – they answer all your questions and completely put me at ease."

"I was so happy with my birthing experience – I had great support and the team was fantastic."

■ ARE YOU AN EXPERIENCED, ENTHUSIASTIC, MOTIVATED AND PROFESSIONAL INDIVIDUAL MIDWIFE ?

Hedgehog that lost his spikes

HEDGEHOGS are well-known for being prickly little creatures so spare a thought for poor spineless Spud.

A very unusual skin problem which has baffled vets has left Spud without any spikes. They have all fallen out, leaving him with no defence against bigger predators.

The experts who have carried out tests on Spud say they cannot explain why he lost his spines.

He was found in a garden and taken to Tiggywinkles, a special hospital for sick and injured wild animals, because hedgehogs need their spikes to keep them safe and warm. Tiggywinkles spokesman Les Stocker said: "We want to let him back into the wild, but without his spikes he won't have any protection."

"Other than his balding exterior, Spud is like any other normal hedgehog and doesn't appear to be in any pain."

Spud now has to be given a warm bath every day followed by a massage with baby oil to keep his skin moisturised.

But there is still hope for him as vets say they think there is a good chance his spikes will grow back.

Daniel Robinson & Sons independent family funeral directors were established in 1892. This year they were awarded the coveted title of Funeral Planner of the Year.

This was in recognition of the high standard of service they provide their clients.

Keeping an eye on your home with phonewatch

SECURE it and save it!

It's good advice as the Home Office admits crime is soaring and at any time of the year keeping your home and family safe and secure is especially important - after all nobody wants to wake up one morning to find someone has stolen all your possessions.

The new Active Security phonewatch home security system is specially designed to meet the most up to date demand of the homeowner. It utilises state of the art radio to create a unique wire-free installation, which can be installed with a minimum of disruption.

When you are away from home, even for a short while, if the alarm is activated it will communicate immediately via the company's alarm receiving centre, with you or your nominated key-holders, so you are instantly aware of what is going on at your property.

Which is just one of the reasons why specialist alarm installers Active Security say you should think about giving them a call.

The range of systems the company installs includes intruder alarms, CCTV, fire alarms and access controls.

So phone Active Security and quote 'Phonewatch' on 0800 7312361.

Let Flat Roof Solutions keep you well-covered

THIS is the time of year when you start to tackle all the maintenance jobs that have been put off until the spring.

One of the most unpredictable items of external maintenance is that of the flat roof. Garages, extensions, dormers and others, it is fair to say, have leaked, are leaking or will leak.

You could be forgiven for thinking that the only answer is to have the roof re-felted again and again. Fortunately, with Flat Roof Solutions you can now put this problem behind you, permanently.

The solution is Topseal. A trademarked and nationally approved flat roofing system. Topseal succeeds where many other systems fail in that it is totally jointless, requires no chippings or maintenance, is safe to walk on and, most importantly, carries a 25-year manufacturers' backed guarantee.

Pet Jarvis of Flat Roof Solutions says: "If problems are not permanently dealt with then anything you do will only be a short term measure. You have to ask yourself 'Will my flat roof survive another bad winter?'"

So why not ask friendly Flat Roof Solutions for a free, no obligation survey and let the firm make your flat roof problem go away permanently.

Come and see our working displays at Wyevalle Garden Centres in Crews Hill, Enfield, and Braintree.

Spoonface's moving lessons for life

A HEARTRENDING play which proved to be the Playhouse Theatre Company's swansong following the group's dissolution last year has been winning over audiences throughout the country on its first UK tour.

Directed by former Playhouse associate director Michael Fentiman and produced by the theatre's former general manager Phil Dale, Spoonface Steinberg is a moving monologue tracking the thoughts of a terminally ill autistic girl, brilliantly realised by Royal Shakespeare Company's regular Zoe Thorne.

By turns heartbreaking and inspirational, the provocative play is adapted from one of a series of radio dramas written by Billy Elliot creator Lee Hall and was described by the Star as "a little piece of heaven" in a review of its opening night at The Playhouse last year.

Mr Fentiman, whose newly formed Beggars And Kings Theatre Company will be presenting the play at The Rhodes Arts Centre, in Bishop's Stortford, tomorrow (Friday), said he felt the play teaches a lot about life's struggles and the inevitability of death.

"Awareness of autism having the possibility to be an active ability as opposed to a life-hindering disability is very important to us," he said.

"Spoonface, through a piercing ability to strip emotion and metaphor away, stumbles upon a genius's insight into life's struggles. Her ability is to help us see clearly, her autism being a gift of perception that illuminates hidden truths in things."

Spoonface Steinberg is at The Rhodes Arts Centre tomorrow at 8pm. Tickets are £10 (£7.50 concs) from (01279) 651746.

Zut alors! It's one 'alloy of a success

FOOLING around with British comedy institutions isn't always such a good idea – as Messers Ross and Brand recently found out, you're more than likely to incur the wrath of those who still hold said icons fiercely close to their nostalgic hearts.

So when a local amateur dramatics company decides to take the bull by the horns and tackle one of the most popular sitcoms ever created, the prospect is naturally met with a certain degree of trepidation.

But the moment Nigel Fruin bumbles on stage in a flurry of nervous excitement and double entendres as everyone's favourite wartime café owner, Rene Artois, any fears the raunchy humour of the original show would fall flat on stage are immediately dispelled.

Follically challenged Fruin bears an uncanny resemblance to his TV counterpart Gordon Kaye, and the sizzling chemistry between the randy café owner and his pneumatic barmaid Yvette (Helen

REVIEW

'ALLO, 'ALLO

Fruin) is naturally given extra spice by virtue of the fact the pair are husband and wife off-stage.

But what of the supporting cast, who each had such important roles to play in the TV series? Officer Crabtree (David Cousins) effortlessly won the audience over with a cursory "Good moaning", camp German Lieutenant Hubert Gruber (played by director Daniel Goode) was outrageously fey and flirtatious, master of disguise Leclerc was played with genuine relish by George Dabbs, and Michelle of the Resistance (Lacey Cousins) was typically feisty and fun.

Ian Prosser gave a pitch-perfect performance as self-deluded Italian ladies' man Alberto Bertorelli, Helen Storey was simply sizzling as domineering fraulein Helga Geerhardt, and Rhonda Tipple was a picture of sexual frustration as Rene's understandably neurotic and long-suffering wife Edith.

The storyline, of course, revolved around the painting of the fallen Madonna with ze big boobies, a priceless artwork stolen by the Germans and hidden in Rene's café to be sold on after the war.

But it's not just the local German officers who covet the painting – Rene, Edith, Michelle, Captain Bertorelli and even Hitler all see it as a post-war goldmine and are desperate to secure it for themselves.

When news that the Fuhrer himself is set to pay a visit to Rene's humble café to be presented with the painting, a series of ludicrous plots are hatched among the back-stabbing Germans and randy French to impersonate Hitler and claim the priceless work for themselves – leading to a hilariously frantic final scene where no fewer than three Hitlers appear on stage at the same time.

Crammed with booming belly laughs, priceless one-liners, enormous German sausages and frankly ridiculous aachents, EHOS's seamless stage adaptation of a bona fide comedy classic was a genuine triumph.

VARIETY Step back in time to the golden age of music hall in a spectacular stage adaptation of the hit BBC show The Good Old Days at The Playhouse this afternoon (Thursday) with a mix of songs and jokes combined in an old-fashioned knees-up. The show starts at 2.30pm and tickets are £12 (£10 concs) from (01279) 431945.

ART Local artist Liz Boast launches her latest exhibition of prints, paintings and sculpture, Sibyls & Symbols, at The Gallery at Parndon Mill tomorrow (Friday), featuring narrative etchings inspired by myths, magic and religion. The exhibition will run until May 10 and admission is free.

MUSIC Geordie rhythm 'n' blues legends The Animals trade the Toon for Harlow tomorrow (Friday) when they storm The Playhouse. One of the bands at the forefront of the British invasion of America's music charts in the early '60s, the Animals are still rocking 40 years on, with original members Mick Gallagher and John Steele. The gig starts at 8pm and tickets are £17 from (01279) 431945.

MUSICAL Imagine being a mountain goat who's terrified of heights! That's the predicament facing Giddy Goat, the star of Music In The Round's magical children's musical at The Playhouse on Saturday. Will Giddy be brave and find the fearless goat inside himself, or will his legs turn to jelly? Pop along to the 3pm performance to find out! Tickets are £6 (£3 children) from (01279) 431945.

MUSIC Patsy Cline is remembered in a stirring tribute featuring many of her greatest hits at The Playhouse on Wednesday. Tracing the career of the great songstress from her country and western roots through to her later pop and jazz-influenced numbers, Irish singer Barbara Ellis pays an hypnotic homage to a household musical name. The show begins at 7.30pm and tickets are £15 (£14 concs) from (01279) 431945.

BALLET Harlow's renowned amateur ballet association celebrates its 50th anniversary with a five-night run of one of the best-loved ballets of all time, The Nutcracker, at The Playhouse. Beginning on Thursday, follow the beautifully choreographed exploits of young Clara as she rescues the dashing Nutcracker Prince from the sinister King Rat and is rewarded with a magical journey to the Kingdoms of Snow and Sweets. The show starts at 7.30pm on Thursday and Friday, 3pm and 7.30pm on Saturday and 3pm on Easter Sunday and Monday. Tickets are £10 (£6 children) from (01279) 431945.

Odds help the Earth to get even with invaders

MONSTERS VS ALIENS: 2D & 3D
certificate PG, running time 1h34m

JUST when it seemed no one could challenge the computer animated might of Pixar, directors Rob Letterman and Conrad Vernon deliver an out-of-this-world adventure showing heroes come in all shapes and sizes.

Fast-paced and peppered with cute visual gags, Monsters vs Aliens is a blast from eye-popping start to uproarious finish.

Admittedly, Letterman and Vernon's picture borrows heavily from Pixar's 2004 smash hit The Incredibles, with nods to Godzilla and countless B-movies, but there are sufficient flashes of invention plus a smattering of heartfelt emotion to bring a tear to the eye.

The opening section delivers one wow moment after the next as the camera drifts through space towards Earth, descending on a research facility where a scientist plays with an elasticated bat and ball just as an unidentified flying object hurtles towards California.

The object – a green, glowing meteorite – lands on fun-loving Susan Murphy (voiced by Reese Witherspoon) on her wedding day – and before she can say "I do", she sprouts to an impressive 49 feet and 11 inches tall.

Held by the military in a secret government compound, she learns that other so-called monsters have suffered a similar fate. Her fellow captives include brilliant inventor Dr Cockroach PhD (Hugh Laurie), half-ape half-fish The Missing Link (Will Arnett), indestructible gelatinous mass B.O.B. (Seth Rogen) and a 350-foot long grub called Insectosaurus.

"One other thing," barks General W.R. Monger (Kiefer Sutherland), the military man in charge of the facility, "the government has changed your name to Ginormica."

In a freakish twist, megalomaniac alien Gallaxhar (Rainn Wilson) dispatches a giant alien probe to Earth to retrieve the fallen meteorite.

The metallic monster easily repels every missile and bomb in the military's arsenal, so the president reluctantly issues an executive order to free the monsters and set them upon the invader from another planet.

Monsters vs Aliens shoots for the moon and soars, melding colourful visuals and a script laden with belly laughs that should appeal to young and old alike.

If Witherspoon's heroine is the emotional heart of the story, Laurie, Arnett and Rogen share the giggles, the latter in fine form as the brainless gloop who thinks he's found a soul mate in a lime green jelly full of pineapple chunks.

Glory days of piracy on the musical seas

THE BOAT THAT ROCKED
certificate 15, running time 2h15m

WRITER/director Richard Curtis appears to have a left much of his trademark saccharine behind for this tale of the glory days of pirate radio based loosely around the true story of Radio Caroline.

The year is 1966, a golden era for rock 'n' roll in this country, but BBC radio plays a mere 45 minutes of pop a day.

So about 25 million listeners instead tune into pirate radio stations, which devote every waking (and sleeping) minute to music.

One such station is Radio Rock, captained by Quentin (Bill Nighy) and crewed by a motley collection of DJs with a passion for vinyl, including star deejay Gavin (Rhys Ifans, pictured above), American rival The Count (Philip Seymour Hoffman) and sarcastic, cruel Dave (Nick Frost).

Quentin's godson Carl, recently expelled from school, joins Radio Rock for the summer in the hope that he might mend his ways.

Instead, the youngster embarks on a quest to track down his biological father, who could be one of the crew members.

Meanwhile, back in London a government minister (Kenneth Branagh, in panto villain mode) explores every legal loophole to shut down the pirate radio stations.

The Boat That Rocked certainly rocks and rolls to a thumping soundtrack including The Beach Boys, Jeff Beck, Cream, Jimi Hendrix, The Rolling Stones and The Who, but the script springs an early leak as Curtis attempts to juggle too many thinly sketched characters and gradually loses ballast under the weight of its own unfulfilled ambition.

sound check with chris moss

IT'S been 43 long years since rock übermenschen Jack Bruce, Eric Clapton and Ginger Baker joined forces to form the first – and arguably greatest – supergroup, inspiring a host of brilliantly bizarre, gleefully experimental and often woefully misguided attempts by others of rock's elite to recreate Cream's richly deserved triumph. But even in today's pick 'n' mix musical universe, where the odd craggy collaboration can revitalise a flagging bank balance and the notion of the 'supergroup' has become so de rigueur that even forgotten pop footnotes such as Hanson (of Mmmmbop fame) are greedily grasping for a slice of the pie, not many towns can claim to have their very own team of snakehipped, rock 'n' roll allstars. Step forward, then, The Electric Heartbreak, whose members have taken the best bits of their respective bands (Spiral Soul, The Culpits, Daypilot and PennyRoyal) and patched them together with spit, sawdust and double-sided sticky tape to create a swoonsome musical mosaic of rumbling psychedelia, mournful folk pop, kick ass rock 'n' roll and sublime songsmithery. Although their work is still in its infancy, the tantalising promise shown on early demos Fine Line and Feel Like An Enemy is more than enough to begin salivating over, while their beautifully understated cover of Kate Bush's Running Up That Hill will bring tears to grown men's eyes – just pray that Clapton-esque egos don't hinder their inevitable rise to stardom.

THE HAUNTING IN CONNECTICUT

Based on a true story, Peter Cornwell's supernatural thriller revolves around a close-knit family pushed to the brink by unseen forces resident in their new home. Peter Campbell (Martin Donovan) and his wife Sara (Virginia Madsen) move to upstate Connecticut with their family into a beautiful home which conceals a dark past: the building used to be a funeral parlour and the former owner's son Jonah was a conduit for evil, bridging the divide between the real and the spirit worlds.

KNOWING Professor John Koestler (Nicolas Cage) begins to unravel a list of numbers found buried in a school time capsule and discovers that contained within the sheet of paper are the precise dates, death tolls and geographical co-ordinates of every major catastrophe to befall mankind. More worrying, there are three more sets of numbers on the page pointing to imminent catastrophes on an unprecedented scale.

PAUL BLART: MALL COP A politically incorrect, comic spin on Die Hard, set in a New Jersey shopping centre under siege from armed robbers.

MARLEY & ME The tale of a young couple struggling to juggle professional and parental responsibilities and the Labrador they love.

A dance on humanity's dark side

WALTZ WITH BASHIR

(Artificial Eye, 18, retail)

Israeli director Ari Folman's film is an astounding impressive feat, both a harrowing war documentary and a meditation on guilt and the fallibility of memory.

Utilising cutting-edge Flash animation, the film opens with the startling visualisation of a nightmare of rampaging mad dogs; it's a dream shared with Folman by an old army friend and an effective metaphor for what follows.

Perplexed, he finds the story unlocks a dream of his own concerning the 1982 Lebanon war, specifically the three-day massacre of Palestinian refugees carried out by Christian Phalangists at Sabra and Shatila in revenge for the assassination of Lebanese leader Bashir Gemayel.

Folman was among the Israeli forces who stood by and let it happen yet finds he has absolutely no memory of it, and so he embarks on a series of interviews with former army colleagues and friends in an attempt to discover the nature of his role in the war and the reason he's repressed all memory of it. Not since Apocalypse Now has a film come this close to capturing the dream-like, hallucinatory nature of recollected conflict and it's an interesting irony that having established itself as a film about recovering memories which may or may not be reliable, Waltz With Bashir is nevertheless scrupulously honest and truthful in what it depicts.

It's also a film of considerable humanity, less concerned with choosing a side amid the calcified politics of the region than with the price exacted by war from all parties.

Included on the disc is a lengthy interview with Folman which further illuminates the events behind the film and how making it has in turn affected him.

SATURDAY NIGHT AND SUNDAY MORNING

(BFI, PG, retail)

An acknowledged classic of the British New Wave, Karel Reisz's 1960 adaptation of Alan Sillitoe's autobiographical novel remains a hard-nosed, unromanticised look at the lot of the British working class half a century ago.

Arthur Seaton grinds away his days at a bicycle factory workbench, the grime and tedium made tolerable only by the weekends for which he lives, when he can fill his boots with beer and dally with married Brenda.

Albert Finney radiates a charismatic vitality as Arthur, a man less certain of what he's for than what he's against, who meets the disapproval of others with a chirpy sneer and lives by the mantra "It's a hard life if you don't weaken".

The industrial streets and chimney-filled skyline of Nottingham are perfectly captured by cinematographer Freddie Francis and the film is brimming with energetic performances, although Shirley Anne Field looks and sounds out of her depth as the factory girl at whom Arthur sets his cap and who, by the end of the film, looks poised to help crush the rebellion from him under the weight of a conventional, semi-detached future.

Extras include a fascinating commentary with Sillitoe, Francis and film historian Robert Murphy, interviews with Finney and Field, Reisz's short documentary We Are The Lambeth Boys and a booklet of essays.

Star rating: ★★★★★

THE LONELINESS OF THE LONG DISTANCE RUNNER

(BFI, 12, retail)

Made a couple of years after Saturday Night And Sunday Morning, Tony Richardson's The Loneliness Of The Long Distance Runner has aged less impressively in terms of its dated stylistic flourishes but remains a powerful showcase for Tom Courtenay's outstanding performance as a different kind of working class hero.

Disgruntled with the system and drifting into petty crime, Colin (Courtenay) is caught and sent to borstal to learn the error of his ways. It's there that he discovers a penchant for long distance running and thus a way to demonstrate his disdain for the expectations of both society at large and the institution's governor (Michael Redgrave), who thinks only of his own reflected prestige.

Courtenay's surrounded by a lot of competing talent (including impossibly youthful John Thaw and James Bolam) but still shines out brightly with a subtle performance radiating an intelligent cynicism.

Extras include a commentary with author Alan Sillitoe, Courtney and film historian Robert Murphy, a video essay by cinematographer Walter Lassally, Richardson's short documentary Momma Don't Allow and a booklet of essays.

Star rating: ★★★★★

SPLINTER

(Icon Home Entertainment, 18, retail)

Brit abroad Toby Wilkins makes a virtue of his evidently modest budget by focusing on interesting characterisations and a single claustrophobic location for this tense monster movie.

Nice couple Seth and Polly are out for a romantic weekend in nature when they encounter white trash convict Dennis and his junkie girlfriend Lacey – an unpleasant enough turn of events, but far worse is in store.

Stranded at (and subsequently in) a remote gas station, the four encounter a lethal parasite which can occupy any organic host – dead or alive, whole or in parts – and walk it around in search of food. As well as sprouting infectious spikes, they're also dangerously swift and seemingly indestructible.

Wilkins wisely keeps his creatures on the move, resulting in the kind of jittery, half-glanced monstrosities that worked so well in Silent Hill and, in the process, cranking up the tension between bouts of explosively bloody mayhem.

With its theme of being under siege from a mutating alien creature stirring echoes of John Carpenter's The Thing, the film's effectiveness is increased significantly by a script which actually invests some time in getting to know its characters, giving them a greater depth and helping the viewer to give a damn when something bad happens to them, while also allowing the capable cast something substantial in which to sink their teeth.

Extras on the disc include a fistful of making-of featurettes, two commentaries plus a creature concept art gallery.

Scrap

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

End of the road? Get over it and move on with your local ATF:

B & T Motor Salvage

We offer free collection, on the same day if necessary, using our own recovery vehicles and issue a Certificate of Destruction from the Department of Vehicle Licensing Authority via our direct link to their website. Payment per vehicle negotiable.

Call Adrian or Liam on 01707 391333

Unemployed and Redundant Flood to Cornerstone

Cornerstone is a name that has become more and more recognisable to the people of Harlow and Bishops Stortford since the recession started hitting. Several people have found their way through our doors to take advantage of the training courses that we run – the most popular being our Employment Skills courses. Alison Sanger is employed at Cornerstone as a Job Broker and Trainer. She says "Part of my job is to establish good relationships with the main employers in Harlow, find out who has positions available and putting our candidates forward for jobs. Although the market is very slow at the moment there are some jobs out there. We help candidates put together a tip-top and up-to-date CV and help with Interview Skills so that they stand the best possible chance of being offered that all elusive position."

With qualified and professional advisers and trainers we are one of the leading suppliers of Training Courses in the area. What's more, all of our courses are FREE to attend and almost ANYBODY who is currently not working is eligible. You can book on one of our courses or just arrange to get help with your CV.

Our courses are ongoing. The next programme begins after Easter. Call and speak to one of our friendly advisers for more information and to book your place – 01279 415871.

Champions eye league and cup double

Niaz said: "You never know we could end up doing the double, which we are more than capable of if we stay focused."

"I'm very happy for the team to have captured the league title after narrowly missing out on it last year. Every single player has contributed as and when needed."

Hawks started nervously and were 7-3 down early on. The visitors then rallied but trailed 16-15 at the first break. Mike Freeman hit back-to-back three-pointers and Lee Collier got an inside score but Hawks were down at half-time. Scores from Haddow, Freeman and Gary Maitland gave Hawks a four-point lead in the third quarter.

Luton put together a 12-2 run to take a five-point lead in the last quarter.

Tactical play then ensured Harlow did not concede any further points.

Harlow Hawks: Jessop (20pts), Niaz (15), Haddow (14), Freeman (12), Maitland (8), Spashett (3), Collier (2), Allan (2), Sharma, Burgess, Jones.

Keeper's a spot-kick hero for Risden

IT was a case of villain turned hero as 18-year-old goalkeeper Lewis Lockwood pulled off two saves in the penalty shoot-out to help Risden Wood A win the Division Two Cup.

Sunday's final at Barrows Farm went to penalties after the match finished 4-4 following extra-time.

Risden keeper Lockwood, who was a midfielder until this season, spilled a shot leading to Matching's second goal, before he made amends.

He saved two of Matching's first four penalty attempts, keeping out Adam Cowan and Patrick Orange spot-kicks.

From the first four Risden penalties only Luke Armstrong missed.

Matching scored goals on 50 minutes and just before the end to make it 3-3. Lockwood spilled Rogerson's free-kick and Watkins tucked home for Matching, before Orange knocked home from a goalmouth scramble.

Risden won 4-3 up on 97 minutes when Daryl Pettengel scored, before the tie went to penalties courtesy of Watkins' 118th-minute strike.

Ben Godleman, the Risden boss, said: "Lewis was upset with his earlier error but he did very well with the saves and I am delighted for him and the team."

RISDEN WOOD A: Lockwood, Godleman, Burnside, Flack, Bolt, Evans (Jackson 57), D. Godleman (Barnard 65), Hitchen, Armstrong, K. Pettengel (D. Pettengel 55), Kammer. Subs not used: Jules-Stock, Collella.

Bite the Bullet to end losing streak

Welcome to Inside Track, our column that gives you the reader an insight into Harlow Greyhound Stadium as our top tipster reveals his favourites for tomorrow.

A LOSING run stretching back to August has seen GRANTS BULLET slip down to the very bottom of the grading ladder.

However, if he's able to show even a glimmer of his old form he could win the 8.45pm contest by a mile at Harlow tomorrow.

It's not usually advisable to support a greyhound with these formlines but this looks a race he can't fail to win.

HOLLYOAK DEEJAY may lead the selection for a while and can hang on to second place.

STONEWALL SMITHY is a greyhound with an impressive CV, covering races at the very top level.

He has taken his time to regain top form after a minor injury but now looks ready to regain winning ways.

Smithy combines early race speed with a strong finishing kick and this mixture should see him home in front with a bit to spare in the last race (10.15pm).

Friday April 3 Selections:

7.30pm Quivers Flyer; 7.45pm On The River Run; 8pm Slam Dunk; 8.15pm Nobles Prag; 8.30pm Ronnies Kate; 8.45pm Grants Bullet; 9pm Lislevane Model; 9.15pm Bonkers Billy; 9.30pm Ronnies Zoom; 9.45pm Classy Deposit; 10pm Annies Falcon; 10.15pm Stonewall Smithy

Title decider for Ladies

VICTORY over Chelmsford last weekend has left Harlow Ladies needing to beat leaders Deeping this Sunday to capture the RFUW South Eastern division three title.

The Rams wrapped up a convincing 40-10 win over their Essex rivals to avenge their away defeat in the corresponding fixture.

Harlow started well and Sarah Stimpson ran in an early try, converted by Emily Gizzi as she did when Davina McLellan ran in another score.

Abi Perry also scored two first-half tries, both converted by Gizzi.

Second-half tries from Stimpson (2), McLellan (2) and Perry completed a comprehensive win.

HARLOW: Acraman, Souch, Lucas, Lacey, Lee, Gizzi, Diprose, Cotterill, Millman, Stimpson, Perry, McLellan, Conway.

Rams first win in 2009

Both sides suffered injuries on 50 and 55 minutes.

A Chelmsford flanker was stretched off after sustaining a bad knee ligament injury.

Rams outside centre Simon Vanbeck sustained a bad cut in a crashing tackle.

Harlow's last score came on 65 minutes when the ball was spun wide to winger Will Grimley who outpaced the defence to touch down for an unconverted try.

Title decider for Ladies

SIX personal bests (PBs) were registered by Harlow-based athletes at open meetings.

Sophie Fuhr (15) came 2nd in the U-17 women's 300m hurdles with a PB of 50.2 secs before getting another PB of 1 min 47.0s in the 600m (3rd) at Hornchurch.

Joanne Cywinski (13) ran a PB of 1:52.8 in the U-15 girls 600m.

Amelia Barrett achieved a PB of 1:58.6 when she was 2nd in the U-13 girls 600m.

Tom Larkin (16) won the U-17 men's 150m with a PB of 17.4s.

At Ilford, Amy Larkin, (16) threw 27.40m (PB) for 4th in the U-17 women's javelin and Tom Richards was 3rd in the U-17 javelin.

Colts secure hard-earned derby triumph

HARLOW Colts defeated local rivals Upper Clapton in a low-scoring but enthralling encounter at Ram Gorse.

It was a tremendous struggle up front with both teams fighting hard.

Clapton conceded a penalty just outside the twenty two but Terry Blackwell's kick drifted just wide.

Ten minutes before half-time Clapton took the lead from a penalty.

Harlow's second-half pressure finally told with a try.

The visitors conceded three penalties before lock James Lewis, who had an outstanding match, took the ball from a maul and crashed over the line with three defenders hanging onto him.

Blackwell's conversion gave Harlow a 7-3 lead.

Both sides missed penalties in the closing stages as the hosts held on to a hard-earned win.

HARLOW COLTS (squad): Carter (capt), Mortimer, Cunningham, Blackwell, Lewis, Clark, Buckner, Drake, Ellis, Alderman, Heeney, Hockley, Bowering, Jenner, Heeney, Poon, O'Donovan, Ansell, Treves, Potter, Ashcroft.

● UPPER CLAPTON lost 18-10 at Writtle Wanderers and remain second from bottom in Essex division one.

Hey, hey, it's Saturday sham

Harlow Tn 0, Heybridge Swifts 1

(Ryman League, prem div)

HAWKS boss Glen Alzapiedi surely faces a massive task in keeping his side in the premier division if this sham-bolic defeat to the side at the very bottom is anything to go by.

Heybridge showed the necessary desire and spirit when the teams clashed at Barrows Farm and fully deserved their three points.

Alzapiedi was so infuriated by Saturday's debacle that he kept his players out on the pitch for some 35 minutes with an impromptu training session.

Jordan Fowler replaced the rested Tom Bruno in midfield.

Swifts grabbed the lead on 12 minutes. The visitors pumped the ball forward into the wind and midfielder Matthew Cutchey headed against a post before Ben Codling rifled the rebound home.

In a further blow, influential right-back Mark Taylor went off with a hamstring injury on 40 minutes.

Harlow started to come alive at the end of a bitterly disappointing first half as Fowler and Ellerbeck went close before Jamie Richards had the ball in the net but this was ruled out for offside.

But the lethargy continued in the second half and was only interrupted by a double substitution by Alzapiedi.

BLOW: Mark Taylor in action against Heybridge before he was forced off injured (V2FZZYJM_02)

He sent on both Emmanuel Osei-Owusu and Crace close to the hour, removing Laurie Stewart and the absent John Frendo.

Osei-Owusu certainly added some much-needed spark but the closest the Hawks came to scoring was in a two-minute spell midway through the second half.

Osei-Owusu played a neat ball through to Richards, who beat the keeper but was forced wide of goal and his poor centre was easily plucked by Swifts keeper Ollie Morris-Sanders.

Moments later Morris-Sanders fumbled Michael

Bardle's 25-yard piledriver, but Crace and Richards could not react quickly enough.

Heybridge could have doubled their lead on 84 minutes when sub Bradley Fleming ran through from what appeared an offside position. With only Hawks keeper James Hasell to beat he comically collided with the stopper when he should have scored.

The same player could have made amends right at the end but played the ball through to Mark Crick and he tucked the ball in from an offside position which was rightfully chalked off.

Taylor said: "Everyone was disappointed but you cannot dwell on it. You have to get on with it.

"They [Heybridge] did not create much and the goal they scored was a freak one. It was going out until the wind caught it."

He added: "They did not offer too much but we did not create much. We could have been trying all day and it might not have happened for us."

HARLOW TN: Hasell 5, Taylor 4 (Webster 40), Bardle 6, Wolf 5, Kear 5, Fowler 6, Stewart 5 (Osei-Owusu 57, 7), Stevenson 5, Richards 6, Ellerbeck 4, Frendo 3 (Crace 57, 5). Subs not used: S. Gliddon, Bruno.

Att: 294.

Canons Brook's backing for terrific prospect

A HIGHLY-rated young golfer has been given a huge boost by Canons Brook Golf Club.

Sixteen-year-old Steve Jones has been awarded a £500 bursary by the Elizabeth Way club in Harlow to help meet his 2009 tournament entry fees and travelling fees.

The teenager, already a two-time club champion and member of the Essex first team, will be playing in all the major UK amateur golf events this year, including The Open regional qualifier in July.

Steve, who has a handicap of +1, joined Canons Brook when he was nine. He came third in the Daily Telegraph Junior Championships in Abu Dhabi last autumn, just behind two older English International players. This was followed by selection for an England training squad.

He has been invited to compete in 37 competitions this year and will play at Britain's best golf courses.

A club spokesperson said: "Steve hopes to bring some credit to the club in 2009 and thanked the board and club members for their generous support. The club has high hopes for Steve."

Hawks' Tayl of woe

MARK Taylor is set to miss the Hawks' crucial 'six-pointer' at Ramsgate this Saturday – but has backed his team-mates to stay in the premier division.

Harlow Town's skipper and dead-ball specialist was forced off with a hamstring injury in the disappointing defeat against Heybridge Swifts five days ago but could return for the home match against Horsham on Saturday April 11.

Billericay Tn 2, Harlow Tn 2
(Ryman League, premier division)

Glen Alzapiedi's men are 17th with 42 points in the premier division after their draw at 10-man Billericay Town on Tuesday.

Four teams will be relegated and Harlow are in real danger as they have a three-point penalty for fielding an unregistered player hanging over them. The club's appeal is heard on Monday.

Taylor told Star Sport: "We have got good enough players to get us out of trouble."

"I think we can avoid the drop with Jamie Richards coming back and also the likes of Paul Kear and Jordan Fowler returning from injury."

Harlow have a key game at basement side Ramsgate this Saturday but will be without midfielder Sam Berry and striker Chris Ellerbeck (both banned).

Taylor said: "We have to keep our heads high, work hard and not lose confidence."

Key striker Richards was dropped for the Billericay game, along with Laurie Stewart and forward John Frendo as Alzapiedi got tough after the Heybridge debacle on Saturday (see report on page 79).

Right-back Ricky Byrne, who has joined on work experience from Southend United, made his debut.

Harlow fell behind on 24 minutes. Kear was robbed by Dee Okojie – only released by Harlow a fortnight ago – who crossed for Rikki Burbridge to tap home.

Billericay midfielder Leon Hunter was shown a straight red card for stamping on a prone Ellerbeck five minutes before the break. Richards replaced the injured Ellerbeck at half-time.

A minute after the break, Harlow made it 1-1 when Jordan Fowler rose to glance a header in.

Billericay restored their lead on 70 minutes. Burbridge latched onto a ball into the box before nodding over advancing keeper James Hasell.

HARLOW TN: Hasell, Byrne, Bardle, Wolf, Kear (Osei-Owusu 65), Fowler, Bruno, Stevenson, Crace, Ellerbeck (Richards 45), Gliddon (Frendo 70). Subs not used: Stewart, Stone (gk).

Skipper's delight at first win of 2009

Harlow 20, Chelmsford 5
(London division three north east)

A STRONG defensive display was the key factor behind Harlow's first league win since Christmas. The tackle count was impressive from the Rams on Saturday and allowed Chelmsford little scope.

There is uncertainty about how many sides will go down from London division three north east but if it is only one, Harlow will be safe.

Harlow are 11th in the 12-team division and cannot be caught by basement side Norwich.

Rams skipper Paul Eynon was ecstatic: "I'm over the moon. It's a big relief and very satisfying after a lot of hard work people had been put in," he said. "The defence was excellent."

The Rams – who were boosted by the return of broken leg victim full-back Rob Mackie – started well against Chelmsford.

They took an early lead when lock Kerry Palmer powered way over the line. James McFerran kicked the conversion.

The home lead was increased on 16 minutes. Flanker Wayne Morgan used his pace to run in an unconverted try in the corner for a 12-0 lead.

Chelmsford reduced the deficit on the half-hour mark. Strong forward play from a visitors' line-out preceded their full-back slipping through the home defence for an unconverted try.

Despite playing up the slope, Harlow started the second half strongly.

McFerran kicked a penalty on 43 minutes to put Harlow 15-5 up.
